SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—[illegible] resolution [illegible] for the printing of [illegible] papers relating to the [illegible] of Matthews as [illegible] of deeds of the District of Columbia. [illegible] and Miller and [illegible] objected to [illegible]

THE COURT OF [ALABAMA CLAIMS] BILL.

On motion of Hoar the senate took up the [illegible] the business of the court of [Alabama claims].

[illegible] the majority and minority of the committee [illegible] The majority report maintains that [illegible] between gold and [illegible] and afterwards [illegible] award [illegible] was [illegible] the property of the United States treasury and should [illegible] part [illegible] The minority [illegible] the contrary, that the United States [illegible] the position of trustee [illegible] bonds named [illegible] with the difference between gold and currency value.

When the bill was about to come to a vote, it [was] precisely the form in which it came from the house [illegible] understanding [illegible] that it provided [illegible] exactly the amount of [illegible] by the United States from Great Britain, giving claimants the benefit of the premium made on the sale of gold for greenbacks, [illegible] which part of the former claimants were paid. It [was] also understood that the bill was to pay all interest which the United States had agreed to pay from the time of receipt of the money [illegible] to 1874, when the money was covered in the treasury.

Hoar said that this understanding was exactly correct. In other words, the United States gives nothing and loses nothing by this transaction. It pays out the money got from Great Britain, and when it invests the money in certain securities and sells them again it pays out the money it gets, and does not make [sp]eculation of the transaction.

Beck asked whether we were not thus paying the people a premium on the legal tender notes of the country.

Wilson replied that we were paying them a premium realized by the government on the sale of coin and bonds and paying them interest on the bonds. In other words, this bill placed the United States in the position of an ordinary trustee and the original claimants who had said they were satisfied with the act of 1882 but who now asked [illegible] by this bill obtained an additional amount of $[illegible],000.

Beck did not think it right to pay interest.

The bill was passed as it came from the house. Yeas 29, nays 23.

[illegible]

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

It Defines the Crime of Polygamy and Provides for Its Punishment

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The house committee on judiciary to-day instructed Chairman Tucker to report favorably an amendment to the constitution declaring polygamy unlawful. There was but one member of the committee who did not agree to the action of the committee, and he only desired further time to consider it. Following is the text of the amendment as it will be reported:

[illegible] That it is recommended [illegible] the two houses of congress [illegible] propose an amendment to the constitution, which shall be valid to all intents and purposes as a part of the constitution when ratified as hereby proposed by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states [illegible] shall be numbered [illegible] read [illegible]

Art. XVI. [illegible] Marriage [illegible] any person of either sex, and [illegible] shall be deemed polygamy. [illegible] polygamy or any [illegible] between [illegible]

[illegible] polygamy or any polygamous association or [illegible] between the sexes [illegible] the United States and every state shall prohibit it by law [illegible]

Third—The judicial power of the United States shall extend to the [illegible] of polygamy and of polygamous association or cohabitation between the sexes [illegible] congress shall have power to define [illegible] punishment therefor.

Fourth—Nothing in the constitution [illegible] shall be construed [illegible] the exclusive power [illegible] the provisions of this article, to make [illegible] laws concerning marriage and divorce within its jurisdiction.

A STATEMENT BY THE CHAIRMAN.

Judge Tucker, chairman of the judiciary committee, said to an Associated press reporter: The [illegible] the amendment on Monday [illegible] probably take up the Edmunds [illegible] bill [illegible] The committee has considered the Edmunds [illegible] which will meet their [illegible] as often as [illegible] the Edmunds bill will be very greatly [illegible] prepared to say until action [illegible] in that respect. I will say, however, [illegible] be in any way materially [illegible] the government in reference to polygamy, but the effort will be while combating the crime of polygamy to do so consistently with constitutional law and with respect to the liberties of the people affected. The amendment to the constitution proposed by the committee was intended to define the crimes of polygamy and like as [illegible] is defined by the constitution itself, so that [illegible] in the definition of the offense would [illegible] to congressional action. Having defined the crime, lest it should continue or be revived in a new state when it ceased to be a territory, the amendment gives congress power to punish the crime created by this article, and to courts of the United States power to try it. Then in order to prevent any inference as to the power of congress to interfere in the general laws of each state as to marriage and divorce, the amendment further provides that no construction shall be given to it which would deny to each state exclusive power to regulate that class of questions, or to give any such power to congress. The amendment therefore, while serving as a remedy for crime even in the states themselves, is strictly conservative of the power of the state over important domestic relations of the family. The amendment was framed for the purpose of throwing the weight of the constitution itself against polygamy. As the present constitution makes it essential that every state that comes into the union as well as those already in it shall be republican in their form of government, so this amendment makes it essential that they be monogamists as to their social life."

Judge Tucker said that he had given the amendment thorough and mature consideration. The sub-committee and then the full committee had agreed to it after full consideration, and it had met with general approval from fifty members of congress to whom it had been shown and on whose judgment he could rely. He intended to [illegible] and secure speedy and thorough consideration for it by congress.

EASTERN NEWS ITEMS.

THE PANAMA CANAL.

NEW YORK, May 21.—The Tribune [illegible] "The beginning of the end has come in the Panama canal business. Mr. Rousseau [illegible] the statements which M. de Lesseps so persistently made, and declares the official accounts of the condition and progress of the work false and fraudulent. The French government thereupon gives notice that if the statements of the agent [illegible] satisfactorily or the government will refuse to authorize the proposed lottery loan. When an enterprise for a long time has been kept alive by [illegible] and stalwart untruthfulness, a definite challenge is apt to be fatal. In any case it seems probable that de Lesseps and his company are irretrievably damaged in the only quarter where they had been strong, namely, in the estimation of the French people, whose singular confidence has enabled the daring deception to succeed thus far.

A CHILD'S HORRIBLE FATE.

GREENSBORO, N. C., May 21.—Intelligence of the horrible fate of a six-year-old girl has reached here from Thomasville. She was feeding a drove of hogs with bread, and in order to reach them better she had got in a corner of a fence. The hogs crowded around her and one of them accidentally bit her hand. [illegible] They grabbed at her bleeding hand, and the child in her terrified attempt to get away stumbled and fell, whereupon they began to [illegible] with each other for the reeking fragments. SULLIVAN GOING ABROAD.

DETROIT, May 21.—During slugger Sullivan's visit in this city yesterday a secret leaked out which has heretofore been carefully guarded. A plan is being arranged by which Sullivan and a combination of American athletes will go to Australia and other English colonies. McCoon, the wrestler, has been spoken of as likely to accompany the party and defend America's title to the Greco-Roman championship. The most important feature of the trip will be the probable meeting of Sullivan and Smith, representative sluggers of America and England.

THE FOLSOM ESTATE IN OMAHA.

OMAHA, May 21.—The announcement of the death of Col. Folsom created considerable surprise in Omaha, where several of his relatives live. Col. Folsom owned an undivided half interest in the estate of his late brother, Ben. R. Folsom, valued at over $500,000 and consisting of Omaha real estate. This estate now goes to the heirs, and as Miss Frankie Folsom, the intended bride of President Cleveland, was the favorite grandchild of Col. Folsom, she will very likely receive the bulk of one half the Folsom estate in this city.

In reply to the appeal of the opposition the letter says: In reference to the judgment whose design appears to be to induce your company to the control of the Union Pacific [illegible] Northern Pacific railroads it is for you to determine whether such action is prudent in view of the fact that should the Northern Pacific desire control it is presumably so that it may use your property to its own advantage, and settle outstanding disputes on its own terms. ST. PAUL, Minn., May 21.—In the Presbyterian general assembly at Minneapolis this morning half an hour was devoted to devotional service led by Rev. Dr. Henry Butler, of [illegible] N. Y.

The moderator announced the standing committees.

Dr. Craven reported for the special committee on observance of the [illegible] recommending that the [illegible] be held in Philadelphia with addresses of retrospect and prospect and thank offerings of five million dollars to be raised, one million [illegible] [illegible] Presbyterian colleges [illegible] [illegible] The proposal was received with enthusiasm.

The chief interest of the afternoon centered in the report of the special committee on assets and accounts of the board of publication by Rev. S. J. [illegible] D. D., of Franklin, Pa., chairman appointed in 1884. He spoke in high terms of the work of the business department and the general property of the board. CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

THE MAXWELL MURDER TRIAL.

ST. LOUIS, May 21.—Interest in the Maxwell case continues undiminished. At the opening of the proceedings this morning, there was a crowd of curious spectators exceeding that in attendance any previous day. This was due to the fact [that a] witness was to be examined who has positively identified the body found in the zinc trunk at the Southern hotel as that of Preller. This witness proved to be J. A. Frazer, of Toronto, Canada, for many years a photographer, but now a portrait painter and sculptor. Frazer was placed on the stand and testified that he had met Preller in Toronto a year ago last February. He described Preller as he knew him then, and exhibited a portrait which he had painted and that had been pronounced an excellent likeness. He was shown by McDonald, of the prosecution, during the latter's visit to Toronto, a postmortem photograph of Preller's body, and had made a portrait from it. Witness described his visit to St. Louis after the murder. He had visited the cemetery in company with one of the counsel for defense, had the casket in which Preller's body had been placed exhumed and recognized the body without doubt as that of Preller. He recognized the corpse by the face and a peculiar scar over the left eyebrow. He considered the body to be in a remarkably perfect state of preservation. Witness identified two different photographs of Preller. Cross-examination failed to confuse witness, and as he stepped down from the stand it was evident that the jurors and spectators alike entertained no doubts as to the identity of the body found in the trunk.

EXECUTION AT SIDNEY.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., May 21.—A special to the Leader from Sidney, Neb., says: James Reynolds was hanged here to-day for the murder of James and John Hinkstone, father and son, thirty miles north of Sidney, September [illegible], 1885. Reynolds was convicted of the crime December [illegible], 1885, since which time he has been shamming insanity. Drs. Mathewson and Carter, of the Lincoln insane asylum, pronounced him sane, and a jury called for that purpose agreed to his sanity. In a letter to his mother, written last night, he acknowledged his crime, but claims the Hinkstones and himself [illegible] Reynolds was very cool and collected [illegible] brought to the gallows. The drop fell at [illegible] and he was pronounced dead at [illegible] There was a large [crowd] around the yard during the hanging, but [illegible] was very orderly.

A DOMESTIC TRAGEDY.

Suddenly Wiggin drew a revolver and stepping back fired three shots at his wife, one shot taking effect in her hip, the second in her arm and the third in her hand. A crowd at once started in pursuit of Wiggin, who ran down an alley. As the crowd gained upon him he appeared to become frightened and after looking backward two or three times placed the muzzle of the pistol to his temple, fired and fell dead. Mrs. Wiggin was taken to the city hospital, where she now lies in a critical condition. Domestic troubles are the cause of the tragedy. Wiggin was well connected, being a son of the president of the New Hampshire legislature.

Has Used Them Forty Years

I. S. Day, of Watsonville, Santa Cruz county, California, writes February 3, 1885: "When my wife was seventy three years old she was troubled with a very bad cough and it looked as if she would die with consumption. She would not call in a doctor, but commenced taking Brandreth's Pills two and three every night. In three weeks she was completely cured, and her health is now very good and I am sure the Pills prolonged her life as well as my own, for I have used them forty years, and am now 61 years old. They have been my only medicine."

PORTLAND, SATURDAY, MAY 22, 1886.

A VITAL FIGURE.

The vitality of Blaine as a party figure is a subject of comment by leading newspapers of both parties from Boston to San Francisco. Ex-Gov. Foster of Ohio says that every republican in that state is for Blaine for president in 1888. Gov. Hubbard of Minnesota says as much for his own state. Blaine is nominally living in retirement, and yet from all parts of the country come frequent indications that Blaine is as powerful a figure as he was the day he swept the Chicago convention like a storm. No man of either party has taken so much punishment from both parties as Blaine. In 1876 he received a blow that few other men would have recovered from; and yet he came up strong and confident in 1880, strong enough even when defeated to name the candidate. In 1884 he was beaten at the polls, and yet to-day he could, if he cared for it, probably get the republican nomination for president. He is the most enduring political prizefighter the country has seen since the days of Andrew Jackson. Very likely he would be beaten again, and yet we presume he would poll about as many votes as any other republican. Logan is strong with the soldier vote, but no stronger than Blaine; Blaine is weak with the independents, but no weaker than in 1884, and no weaker than Logan would be, who is as odious to the mugwumps as Blaine, but for a different reason than that which roused them to revolt in 1884. Logan is offensive to the literary and political critics because he is believed to be deficient in culture and the desirable attainments of a statesman; he is described as a military demagogue, who would throw away the earth and the full- has placed himself on record as holding both the theory and practice of civil service reform in contempt. He is weaker, too, than Blaine, because he has never been exposed to the shower of hot sand that the sirocco of a presidential contest sifts on the candidates, penetrating every joint of the most perfect armor of personal character and public service. There are no terrors in the future for Blaine. The mugwump effort has wrought its worst on him, while Logan would be vulnerable to a storm of ridicule that Blaine never had to face; ridicule of his powers of acquired intelligence and capacity to behave with becoming dignity in the white house and to prepare his state papers with respectableability. The mugwump never impeached Blaine's literary quality, nor his mastery of powers of speech and gifts of graceful bearing entirely adequate to the responsibilities of the great office of president; the mugwump impeached his political honor and official purity; unjustly it may be, but for once successfully. But the mugwump probably could not do this again; he has exhausted his quiver of arrows, and probably Blaine has gained something of strength from the fact that with the rough-and-tumble masses of both parties there is a strong dislike of the policy of Cleveland.

Many democratic papers are saying that Thurman must be the candidate of their party in 1888. Though Thurman will probably be regarded as too old for the honor, yet suggestion of his name is indicative of the dissatisfaction with Cleveland. The republicans who welcome Blaine and the democrats who cheer for Thurman are of the same temperament: they like a man for president who will first take care of his own party; and take care of it by taking care that none but their own clansmen are put into political office; and that all of the enemy shall be driven out of the captured camp. This popular feeling gives strength to Blaine with the republicans, and to Thurman with the democrats. Both of these men stand for the popular idea of a strong partisan and positive president; a man of vigorous, emphatic ideas, full of aggressive determination to lead by pleasing his party. We think Blaine likely to be nominated, if he cares to be; and as likely to be elected as any republican yet named as a competitor. The republican prospect of recapturing the White house under any leader is not flattering at present, but Blaine would probably make as bold and bitter a battle as anybody, and with quite as good chance of success; not because he is the best man, but because his wonderful personal vitality is nowhere near exhausted. The spell of his manner and methods still makes his party follow his flag; but the opposition which so strong a personality always creates in a party so full of critical and independent minds as the republican party is, must make it doubtful whether he can lead the way to success.

THINGS MEANT FOR MANKIND.

In the second volume of Grant's "Personal Memoirs" is recited the following incident of fine courtesy between hostile armies:

> As I would be under short-range fire and in an open country I took nobody with me, except, I believe, a bugler, who staid some distance to the rear. I rode from our right around to our left. When I came to the camp of the picket guard of our side I heard the call, "Turn out the guard for the commanding general." I replied, "Never mind the guard," and they were dismissed and went back to their tents. Just back of these, and about equally distant from the creek, were the guards of the Confederate pickets. The sentinel on their post called out, in like manner, "Turn out the guard for the commanding general," and, I believe, added, "Gen. Grant." Their line in a moment front-faced to the north, facing me, and gave a salute, which I returned.

The spirit of this courtesy appears in the history of all great wars. In the desperate fighting that took place before Lord Wellington tore victory from the French at Talavera it is related that certain troops, fearfully exhausted by the heat of the summer's day, came suddenly upon a little brook that stole its sinuous way through the valley; by tacit consent firing on both sides in a moment ceased and Saxon and Gaul drank hastily of the sweet water, bathed hurriedly their burning brows, briefly exchanged gay and courteous acknowledgement of each other's splendid valor, and as soon as the last suffering soldier had slaked his thirst and regained his ranks, the dreadful struggle for the mastery began anew more fiercely than before. At the battle of Chickamauga, Sept. 20, 1863, fell Gen. Wm. H. Lytle, an eloquent Cincinnati lawyer of fine literary accomplishments, and author of the popular poem, "I am dying, Egypt, dying." The story is told that when his body was found by the Confederates and identified among the Union dead the Confederate officer present at once gave the body an escort of honor, and as the corpse was borne along the chivalric rebel took off his cap reverently and recited "I am dying, Egypt, dying," and subsequently said, "Poetry is neither Union nor Confederate; it belongs, like love and courage, to humanity." The high souled Confederate was right. Noble thought has no sex, no clime, no nation; it is as much the pride and property of all as the air we breathe; the sun that is the splendid "Eye of golden day;" the rain that mercifully blesses the earth beneath and swells the sweet springs under the earth; as the breeze that touches the fevered brow with its cool kiss the world over and it was in this fine spirit that the English in spite of their insular exclusiveness, placed the bust of Longfellow in Westminster Abbey; they feel that poetry is not English or Yankee, but, as the gallant Southern soldier said, belongs to the race to honor, to prize and respect, no matter whether it blooms in England or America. As Pericles, the great Athenian said "When a great man dies, the whole world mourns." So England took off its hat to Longfellow, not a great man nor a great poet, but a true poet of mothers and children, of the hearth and the home, and therefore particularly dear to the average Englishman, who, with all his brusqueness, is the most affectionate man in the world, and at the same time the least sentimental.

The New York Tribune says that "rich and unused land can be found in all the older states, and even within five miles of the city hall, New York, which if cultivated would yield more per acre than any farm in Ohio or Illinois. Going to Ohio, and taking the first county which contains no city and only one village of 3500 population, there is found in Darke county a population of seventy-one to the square mile, producing enough wheat for 240,000 inhabitants, and enough corn for 200,000 inhabitants, and enough potatoes for 160,000 inhabitants, and yet over a third of the land still remains a forest. With the rest of the land occupied, this county would support in prosperous agriculture a population of 100 to the square mile, and at the same rate the 2,000,000 square miles of unsettled land in the United States would support an additional population of 200,000,000 people in agriculture alone, besides as many more engaged in supplying the various wants of farmers and consuming their products."

In another column the "modern whigs" present a county ticket which will commend itself to many independent voters. Only two names which do not appear on one or another of the tickets already in the field finds place on this, the purpose of the whigs being to choose among the various candidates those best fitted for the offices which they seek. Character, capacity, responsibility and political relationships have been the considerations. There are no doubt many who will prefer themselves to judge of these matters, but to all who wish to help smash the ring, the whig ticket affords a basis at least for effective scratching. It is proper to say that the whig movement is by well known citizens, none of whom are or have been office seekers. It is a movement for the purification of the ballot and to smash the ring.

The people of Dakota at their constitutional convention, held the 5th inst., adopted a resolution declaring that "if congress shall adjourn without action upon the claims of Dakota for division and admission, or for division, the constitutional convention shall reassemble and submit to the people at the November election, the question of the repeal of section 32 of the constitution, which prohibits the legislative, judiciary, or executive departments from exercising any powers until recognized by congress." The Union at this session of congress because the democratic majority doesn't wish to admit a new republican state.

Nasby, who has become a 'perfeshnal labor reformer and monopoly oposer,' writes in this strain:

> I hate a capitalist, no matter how he becum one. I hate the meen-spirited, grovelin wretch wich will work ten or more hours a day, depriviu hisself uv beer and terbacker, and keerds and bilyards, and hoss-racin, and sich, savin peny by peny till he hez ground enuf out uv the world to hev a shop uv his own, and to employ other men to slave fur him, and thus go on akumulatin till he owns things. Sich men are monopolists, and the enemies of laber, and grinders.

About two years of such a campaign as the 'ring-and-ring' party is now conducting would bring the managers to the same conclusion that the bully reached, who hired out as a "fighter." At the end of a terrific combat, in which he only conquered at the cost of considerable personal disfigurement, the "fighter" turned to his employer with the remark, "Don't you think that last quarrel was quite unnecessary?"

Cornelius "never had a shirt washed by a Chinaman." He ought to live in Lisbon, described by Byron as a land where

> No personage of high or mean degree,
> Doth care for cleanness of surtout or shirt,
> Though shent with Egypt's plague,
> Unkempt, unwashed, unhurt.

Couldn't Col. Cornelius produce affidavits to show that he never did have a shirt washed by a Chinaman, and put an end to this harrowing suspense?

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

MADE AN ASSIGNMENT.—Yesterday Mrs. M. J Davidson, who has been running the Eureka laundry just south of the First street bridge made an assignment for the benefit of her creditors to G W Ogden. The laundry was run under the firm name of Sharno & Davidson. The assets are estimated to be worth $5750 and the liabilities set down at $4181 40. The assets include the east sixty feet of lots 5 and 6 in block 60 of Caruthers's addition estimated to be worth $2500. Engine and boiler in shop are placed at $1600, various machines and appurtenances are all included and make up the balance in lots ranging from $400 down to $30. The Willamette iron works, who credited the laundry men to the extent of $407, are secured by a lien. The Portland Lumbering & Manufacturing company are secured by mortgage on house and lot for $442 as is also John Scheirer for $325. John Cress, one of the creditors to the extent of $400, is secured by mortgage on engine and boiler and Dayton & Hall for $42 hold a mortgage on the sticker and shaper. Other creditors are not secured and the amounts due them range from $200 down to $3. Those whose claims amount to more than $100 are as follows: George Houghton $100, Wadhams & Elliott $204, Bishop & Smith $100, Whittier Fuller & Co $160, Honeyman & Co $150, John Barrett $116.

TESTED.—A most satisfactory and successful test of Burnett & Co's impervious lime fireproof roof paint was made yesterday at 40 First street, corner of Ash. A bundle of shavings and kindlings were placed upon a frame of shingles, painted with this paint and lighted. The shavings and kindlings burned to ashes without affecting in the least the paint or shingles. Chief Morgan of the fire department made a most severe test by turning a painted shingle over a bunch of matches so as to get the full force of the blaze and are on the paint. The matches burned completely without damaging the painted shingles. Mr Douglas, 40 First street, is agent for this paint, and says that tin roofs will be painted for 50 cents a square (100 feet), shingles $1 a square, 100 feet and guaranteed for years. Old roofs, with moss can be cleaned and painted, making same positively water and fireproof and forever preventing moss or fibrous fuzz from forming thereon. The roofs of the county court house, Esmond hotel, Foster & Robertson's buildings and a hundred others all of which bear evidence of the superior quality of this paint for durability and effectiveness.

VERDICT FOR PLAINTIFF.—Yesterday after noon the case of Edgar L. Lowell vs. James Young was on trial before a jury in state circuit court No 1. In this case Mr Young sold his retail grocery store on Fourth street to Lowell for $2700 together with the good will and at the time agreed not to engage directly or indirectly in the same business and gave a bond of $500 not to do so. Latterly [illegible] Cold bought out A. Ferrara, the First street grocer, Mr. Young going in as salesman. Mr Cold is Mr Young's son in law, and the supposition and allegation of Lowell is that Young furnished the money or helped Cole into the business. Mr Young claims he is only a bookkeeper in the concern. Plaintiff's attorneys claim that Mr Young has violated his agreement by in any way concerning himself in the business. W. H. Adams and Judge Caples appeared for Young and H Y Thompson and C P Heald represented Mr Lowell. The case was given to the jury at 5 o'clock. After deliberating an hour they brought in a verdict in Lowell's favor for the amount claimed.

POOR AND IN JAIL.—Gelsmardo has made a confession to the effect that Madame Foste gave him the poison which he took for the purpose of committing suicide and also influenced him to take it. His story is that he was not to take enough to kill himself but sufficient to make him very sick. He was then to squeal and play off that he was very bad and thus create sympathy in his favor. The doctor did take the poison and simulated insanity and all that sort of thing but without wanting to come near crossing over the river. Madame Foste has gone to Victoria after obtaining from Gelsmardo all the money and valuables he had left and from Victoria her objective point is said to be San Francisco. Gelsmardo is now utterly without means, possessing nothing but the clothes on his back. He still asserts that he is innocent of the crime of which he was convicted.

GRAND LODGE INSTALLATION I. O. O. F.—The grand lodge of the independent order of Odd Fellows of Oregon, held its annual session at The Dalles during the week, at the conclusion of which the following officers were duly installed to serve for the ensuing term: G M, R. Alexander, of Pendleton; D G M, H E Dosch, Portland; G S, J M Bacon, Oregon City; G T, I G Wright, Salem; G W, [illegible] Palmer, Baker City; G M, T O Ford, Roseburg; G C, D F Buchanan, Portland; G H, J T Stewart, East Portland; G G, I W Henley, Lola; G C, Rev W G Shopson, Ashland; trustees, J J Walton, T J Stites and C F Palmer. A N Gambell of Portland was elected representative to the Sovereign grand lodge which meets in Boston in September. East Portland was selected as the place for holding the next annual session.

LOST HIS EYESIGHT.—Judge Greene of Washington territory has been stricken with blindness. For some time past he has been afflicted with [illegible] but by the aid of glasses has managed to attend to his duties. The climax was reached last Monday. The judge that day went to Snohomish for the purpose of holding court. Though he uttered no complaint the attorneys saw that he was suffering severely. The court was convened when the attorneys presented a resolution adopted by them requesting a continuance of the term to a later day. The juries were called and excused and term was adjourned to June 28. A soft cataract had made its appearance on the judge's left eye, entirely depriving that member of sight. Dr Reich, the oculist, is attending him and he says unless the judge takes a rest he will run great risk of also losing the right eye.

COMPANY "G" BENEFIT.—A very large and fashionable audience packed the Casino opera house last night, the occasion being the long expected entertainment given for the benefit of company G, O. N. G. The company was ably assisted by a large number of young men who volunteered their services. The building was very tastily decorated with a profusion of bright colored bunting, making the bare barnlike structure more attractive than it has ever before appeared. For an hour the greater part of the entertainment was excellent. An extended notice will appear in THE SUNDAY OREGONIAN. A performance will be given this afternoon and the closing performance to-night.

SERIOUSLY INJURED.—William Requa, a yard man employed for the O R & N. Co. at East Portland, met with an accident at half past 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. It seems Requa was on top of one of several cars which got away, running down the incline and were brought to a stop all of a sudden. Requa was thrown off, landing on his head and knocked senseless. He was taken to the Portland general hospital in which he holds a certificate. On examination it was found that he was badly bruised but no bones were broken. His injuries are at present not thought to be of a serious nature. Requa is particularly unfortunate as he has for some time past suffered severely from fever and ague. He is a married man.

REMAINS OF A CHILD FOUND.—Early yesterday evening Coroner Cooke was notified that there was a dead body of a newly born infant under a vacant house on Columbia street between Front and Water. Mr Cooke repaired to the scene and found the report to be true. The body was lying under the rear end of the building, wrapped up in a dark silk handkerchief. It was removed to the morgue. The coroner will investigate the matter. The infant to all appearance had been born prematurely. Mrs Colby, a woman living in the neighborhood, discovered the remains and reported the facts to [illegible] and Byrnes. The parties who made such disposition of the remains should be punished.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING.—About [illegible] o'clock yesterday morning, Miss Della Brewer, a clerk at Kaltermann's ice cream parlors, was out walking on the boom of logs near Smith's mill. She evidently was not aware how easy it is to roll off a log, but she soon found out as she stepped on a loose log which turned and threw her into the river. Mrs. J. B. True saw her mishap and screamed for help. Several men rendered the assistance of the young woman who had already sunk twice and succeeded in landing her in a very [illegible] condition. A boom of logs is not a good place for ladies even in stroll.

Boyd, late of Wars[illegible], who has been [illegible] with excellent [illegible] has been authorized by the presbytery of Oregon to enter upon the South Portland and Fulton field at once and we are informed he will begin regular services next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock in the building south of the second First street bridge, where a mission Sunday school has been so successfully conducted for several months under the superintendence of Mr Morey. A church, the fourth in the city, is to be organized as soon as practicable on this field.

SPRIGHTLY OLD GENTLEMAN.—Mr Hugh Montgomery, the venerable father of Chas. Montgomery, president of the Hotel Keepers association of San Francisco, arrived here on the steamer Oregon last night. It was surprising to see the venerable old gentleman at the advanced age of [illegible] years skipping off the gang plank like a lad of [illegible] full of fun and frolic. He was met by his friend Mr Thomas Mitchell of the Quimby house and will be his guest for a few days, when he will leave for Ellensburgh W T on a visit to his daughter.

Y. M. C. A. LECTURE.—A very interesting lecture was given last night at the Y. M. C. A. chapel by Dr Osman Royal on "Ills and Plasters." A large number of young men were present and all enjoyed the thoughtful and practical remarks of the doctor. The next in the course of practical talks will be given next Friday by J. J. [illegible], subject, "Cranks." This is the last in the series of lectures. Young men are especially invited to attend this lecture as they will be interested in the subject. Tickets secured at the office without cost.

LYNCHED BY VIGILANTES.

Four Horse Thieves Caught with Stolen Stock in their Possession are Left Dangling in Mid Air

Pomeroy (W T) Times May 18.

From advices received this morning the Times learns of dire and swift retribution which has overtaken the band of daring outlaws who have been committing all sorts of depredations in this and adjoining counties for months past, but who have lately confined their attention to running off horses and cattle in Asotin and Walla Walla counties. Two or three weeks ago a party of resolute men made up from stock men in Asotin county and along the border of Idaho started in pursuit like sleuth hounds after their prey. After pursuing the outlaws over a considerable territory they were finally run to cover on Salmon river, Idaho, between White Bird and John Days. After a short but fierce fight the gang were compelled to surrender. There were six of them all told. One half breed called Jack and five white men whose names are given as Toda Farmer, about 26 years old; Joe Grimes, 30; Nick Fox, 23; Chas Oxwell, 20, and John O'Neil, 21. The capture occurred about 3 o'clock in the afternoon and after the outlaws had been disarmed and a guard stationed over them the vigilantes drew them up and stern Judge Lynch passed sentence upon them. The half breed, Jack, Farmer, who seemed to be the leader, Grimes and O'Neil were taken apart after the brief but eventful trial and marched to a little copse of trees which grew near the river and with their own lariats a noose was made which was thrown over the heads of each while the other ends were drawn over the outstretched arms of the sturdy trees. A signal was given by the leader of the vigilantes and four horses were brought forth upon which the four doomed men were made to mount. After they had been led directly under the four respective trees and the noose adjusted the captain of the pursuing party said:

"Men, you know what is before you. You have been caught with stolen property in your possession and it has been decided by those men whom you see around you that you must be hung. Two of your companions lying over there are spared for the present, and will be turned over to the authorities. Have you anything to say before you are ushered into eternity?"

"No," said Farmer, who acted as spokesman, "you can't make us take water. If yer goin' to hang us, give the boost; you can bet the gang'll git even on yer if yer do, though."

"Where's the rest of your confederates?"

"Find em if ye kin."

At this rejoinder the captain gave a sign, the four horses sprang forward and the next moment four struggling convulsive bodies were dangling in mid air. The party immediately got under way, taking with them the two prisoners and proceeded up Salmon river. About twenty head of horses, a number of which were fine stock, were taken with the gang. One of the prisoners was taken to Asotin. The party composing the vigilantes are unknown, at least our informant keeps silent on the subject.

THE COURTS.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT.

In the four cases of Ellis G Hughes vs the Dundee Mortgage and Trust Investment company, the motion to strike out parts of the reply and a demurrer to other parts of the reply were argued and submitted.

In the case of the U. S. vs James Chenoweth and Arba F. Stearns, by consent of parties a judgment was awarded plaintiff for $347 14.

STATE CIRCUIT COURT NO. 1.

In the case of J. H. Fisk vs D. N. B. Henarie and others, Judge Smith charged the jury yesterday morning, the evidence being all in and the argument is concluded. At 0:30 the jury retired, and at 2:30 they came in with a verdict for the plaintiff for $60,000, the full amount sued for. It is almost a settled fact that defendants' attorneys will appeal the case.

STATE CIRCUIT COURT, NO. 2.

Yesterday in Judge Stearns's court the case of Leander Holmes vs J S Risley was settled and dismissed.

The case of Amos King vs O. Noos et al was set for hearing Friday next. This is a suit brought December 8, 1884 and has already been through the court once.

J M Bewer vs Jos. Holladay et al.—Motion to make complaint more definite and certain argued and submitted.

In the case of D N Goldberg vs. Emil Weber a like order was made. Goldberg claims he was in partnership in the Brunswick billiard parlors with Emil Weber and desires to have the court establish that fact. He alleges that Weber left him to pay all the bills when he drew out of the firm.

In the suit for divorce brought by Ellen Patterson vs Chas. M. Patterson the defendant was allowed by Judge Stearns yesterday until May 29 to appear and show cause why he should not turn over certain property to plaintiff and also allow her sufficient money with which to procure a divorce.

POLICE COURT.

In the police court yesterday Fabrio Rums was tried and acquitted on a charge of assault and battery on Alinski La Beau. This case has already been partially reported. La Beau went to Rums's place and bought some cigarettes and a dispute occurred over the amount of money paid. La Beau came back shortly afterwards and called Rums a dago. The result was a fight, in which both men were badly punished. Judge Dement dismissed the case for the reason that La Beau commenced the quarrel.

Frank Allen, arrested for vagrancy, was given his liberty on his agreeing to leave the city.

Hong Yim and Hong Jim, two Chinamen arrested for shooting from the top of a hill across the city park, are to be tried to-day on a charge of discharging firearms within the city limits. Park keeper Myers made the complaint.

CHAPTER OF ACCIDENTS

VANCOUVER PLAINS, May 20 1886.

Last Saturday while Mr Leo Pin, a Frenchman aged 81 years, was riding with his son on a load of hay, he was dumped off with the load while coming down a little hill. The wheel struck the right side of his head, taking off a part of his ear and bruising his head and chest causing concussion of the brain. He lingered until Wednesday at 10 A. M., when death relieved the aged pioneer of his sufferings. He was a Canadian and moved to Illinois about forty years ago with old Mr Dupuis of Vancouver. He moved from there to Kansas in 1857. Went to California mines in 1853 with Charles Brunell of Vancouver. He arrived here a month ago to visit his son. His funeral took place to-day from the Catholic church. Among his pall bearers were J. B. Bland, aged [illegible], Nicholas Dupuis [illegible] and G. o Bign[illegible].

On Tuesday an old resident of this county, Cornelius McDonald, while driving home from town with a load of lumber, met a load of picnic children. His horses shied, and on turning them [illegible] to one side a board on the load flew up and in some unaccountable manner struck the horses and McDonald was thrown off the load. The wagon wheel struck the left side of his head and his ankle was sprained. He was considerably bruised up. Was taken to the Sisters' hospital and is doing well.

Yesterday a Mr La Belle, residing some miles out of Vancouver, was kicked in the thigh by a horse. The wound, inflicted is dangerous and may prove fatal.

This forenoon young George Dampbifer, son of old Michael Dampbifer, met with another dreadful accident. He was out driving with horse and wagon. The horse ran away with him, bruising and mangling him in a most shocking manner. He had a terrible accident sometime since, almost as fatal in [illegible] to kill him and there may [illegible] him off. He was taken to the Sisters' hospital where his wounds were dressed and he was made as comfortable as possible.

PERSONAL.

John Gran is said to be [illegible] and hopes to be [illegible] in a few days.

Mayor Gates left yesterday overland for Sacramento. He will be absent about a week.

J. H. Shaderrin called at THE OREGONIAN branch office, New York City, May 14th and sailed the next day for Europe.

Mrs. William Wadhams left last Sunday for Minneapolis, where her mother, Mrs. Skinner, who is well known here, lies hopelessly ill.

Mr A J Shepherd, a native of New York state, but for twenty-five years a resident of Australia, where he is a large land owner and capitalist, and for whom the town of Shepherdstown was named, is in the city. He is on his way to Chicago.

BASE BALL.

The second game of the series for the league championship will be played at the Oaks Sunday between the Willamette and Stars. Following are the nines of each and their positions in the field:

Stars	Position	Willamettes
Creegan	Catcher	Wadlin
Mullee	Pitcher	Wills
Calhoun	Short stop	T. Parrott
Gannon	First base	H. Parrott
Nagle	Second base	T. Corless
Cook	Third base	F. Smith
Drummond	Left field	Drennan
Cavaline	Center field	A. G. Parrott

"CALLED BACK."

The thrilling tale by Hugh Conway, that has created so much interest and is being read by all the world as well as dramatized, will be published as a serial story in the Willamette Farmer beginning with the second week's issue in June. It will take four months to complete the publication of the story. Those who will send 5 cents will receive the Farmer until January 1887 and thus be able to get the entire story at less than regular cost of the paper. Address
WILLAMETTE FARMER, Salem, Or.

SUNDAY EXCURSION.—The steamer Multnomah will make an excursion to Bradford's island fish wheels, stopping at the following places: Vancouver, Fisher's landing, La Camas, and Washougal. This is the first opportunity the Portland people have had to witness the fish wheels in operation, and it will give those desiring to spend a few hours at La Camas and see the extensive improvements made by the Columbia River Paper company, including the paper mill. Steamer will leave Portland Alder street wharf at 6 A. M., returning at [illegible] P. M. Fare, round trip, $1. Sunday, May 23.

SUIT OF THE CITY LEVEE.

The Heirs of Stephen Coffin Claim that the City has Forfeited its Right to the Levee and Ask that it be Restored to them.

For some time past the question of what disposition should be made of the public levee has been agitated. The legislature voted it to the Willamette Valley railway company and this corporation brought an action in the state circuit court for the purpose of having the question settled as to what damages if any they should pay the city by reason of the grant. Yesterday a new feature in the case developed itself, being nothing more or less than a suit in the state circuit court by Geo A. Coffin, Leander Marvin, Stephen Coffin Jr, James W Coffin, W W Coffin and Ernest C Coffin, heirs of Stephen Coffin, deceased, against the city of Portland and the Portland & Willamette Valley railway company for the recovery of the levee property. The complaint after citing how the original owners acquired a title to the land goes on to describe in what manner the city became invested in any right in the property. It states in effect that January 23 1865 Stephen Coffin executed without consideration a deed of the public levee tract for the use of a public landing or levee, but reserved to himself all rights for a public ferry thereon. But plaintiffs allege that by its charter said city of Portland had no power or authority to accept said conveyance and never has had and has not now any such power or authority and the said conveyance is absolutely void. That in 1861 Stephen Coffin, for the consideration of $5,000 executed to the city of Portland a second conveyance of said levee property, reciting that in and by said conveyance of 1855 he had reserved to himself all ferry rights for a public ferry on said premises and that it was desirable that the city of Portland should hold the property free from such railroad rights. Plaintiffs allege that the conveyance of 1861 created no additional rights in said city of Portland to the public levee, the second deed being intended to extinguish said ferry rights and no further, and was for the purpose of enabling the city of Portland to hold said premises in trust for the use of the public. That at that time said premises were worth $80,000 and the city of Portland falsely represented in order to induce Stephen Coffin to execute the deed, that it was the purpose of the city to devote such levee to the public for public use as a landing.

The complaint then goes on to state fully that the city has not fulfilled the obligations, etc. That during the year 1864 the city drove some piles at the levee at an expense of $4000, but has not otherwise improved it. The act of the legislature conveying the property to the railway company is then quoted and declared in the complaint to be void and unconstitutional.

Plaintiffs wind up with a prayer to the court in which they allege that the legislative assembly of Oregon did not have nor does not possess any power or authority to grant or convey any interest in said levee to the Portland & Willamette railway company. Wherefore plaintiffs pray that there be decreed and declared to be a resulting trust of the premises to them and that the city of Portland be decreed and compelled by its proper officers to execute to them a conveyance of said premises upon the payment to it of all sums laid out and expended by it, and that said Portland & Willamette railway company be forever enjoined from asserting any claim to said premises or in any way interfering with them. Also for costs and disbursements.

ADDRESS OF THE MODERN WHIGS

To the Voters of Multnomah county:

A time has arrived in the political history of our state and county and a crisis is upon us that demand imperatively concerted action by our citizens without respect to political opinions or party affiliations. Evidences present themselves on all sides that the councils of the great political parties are controlled by corruption and that the system so long existent is rotten to the core.

In view of these facts a number of citizens of Multnomah county, none of whom are or have been office holders, and none of whom have been identified with political movements in the past or seek political favors in the future, have formed an association under the name and style of "The Modern Whigs," having in view the purification of our local government, and the presentation to the voters of the county of a ticket for county and legislative offices, composed of the best men among the candidates now in nomination by the several parties, carefully avoiding those who are morally unfit for public trust, or who by reason of notorious connection with party rings have forfeited the confidence of the community. It is an admitted fact that no political issues of moment are involved in the present campaign, in so far as our county or legislative tickets are concerned, nor is any partisan legislation desired or expected during the ensuing session.

There will therefore be a vast amount of scratching on the part of voters in all parties, even the staunchest of whose adherents are unable to swallow some of the disgusting morsels served up at the party banqueting board.

But disorganized scratching, without form and void, having neither foundation nor superstructure, complete or symmetrical, can accomplish nothing. The modern whigs have accordingly aimed at the preparation of a ticket in which merit, standing in the community and identification of interests with our people shall be the sole tests of fitness for place. We venture to say that in this we have been reasonably successful. We do not assert that each and all of the names on our ticket will be acceptable to every individual voter, but to all such as are unfriendly to some particular candidate we would state that our ticket has been prepared in a spirit of mutual concession and regard for the feelings of all honorable men.

We have endeavored to divide our candidates fairly and equitably between the parties, and it behooves our citizens to sink individual preferences in order to promote the public good in all cases in which no feeling other than personal disinclination towards the candidate exists. We have nominated an independent candidate for circuit judge for reasons that are apparent from the general tenor of this address, without more specific mention.

We call attention to the fact that we have gone outside of the party tickets in making a nomination for coroner. We have done this for the reason that the office (a minor one from a political point of view) frequently rises to great importance in the preliminary administration of criminal justice. It will also be remembered that in certain cases the coroner is invested with all the powers, duties and responsibilities of the sheriff and may thus be called on to perform acts that will vitally affect the interests of the community. We have therefore followed the custom which prevails in nearly if not all other sections of the Union, and have nominated a skilled physician, upon an office which so frequently demands the exercise of the very high type of professional intelligence.

The following is our ticket:

For Constable	Thomas Spr[illegible]

SOUTH PORTLAND PRECINCT.

For Justice	Geo. A. Broll
For Constable	D. [illegible] Spr[illegible]

A careful inspection of the foregoing ticket will show that we have accepted selections from nominees of the several parties which has been made [illegible] the evils above enumerated. It contains the names of those who are citizens and all well known to the [illegible] [illegible] have lived their lives in the light [illegible] whose records are open to [illegible] [illegible]. They are distinguished by personal integrity, intelligence and fitness for the performance of the duties that may devolve upon them.

We therefore call upon the people of our county to rise in their might, to throw off the shackles of the rings and to administer a stinging rebuke to the bosses, couched in such effective terms as shall impress it indelibly upon their memories.

THE MODERN WHIGS.

THE WOMEN AT THE POLLS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Anent the above vexed question I desire to say that it is conceded in California that the presence and legitimate work of women at the polls helped largely to carry local option in so large a town as Oakland, only a few minutes ride from San Francisco. History might repeat itself in Oregon if women, the great sufferers through intemperance, worked at the polls for temperance.

EX-CALIFORNIAN.

CLOW AND CAMPBELL.

The grand glove contest to-night at New Market theater between Dave Campbell, champion of Oregon and John P. Clow, champion of Colorado, will give Campbell's Portland friends an opportunity to see how he has improved by his Eastern visit.

Mr Clow came here with no small honors as a pugilist and if "Dave" can successfully compete with him his friends may well be proud of the rapid strides he has taken in the manly art.

BOARD OF TRADE.

The President Asked not to Remove the Military from Fort Klamath.

A special meeting of the Board of Trade was held at 10 A. M. yesterday. The following preamble and resolutions were submitted by Mr Kamm and on motion were adopted:

WHEREAS, This board has been informed that the president of the United States has by order dated May 6, directed the withdrawal of troops stationed at Fort Klamath, in Southern Oregon, and the discontinuance of the military post so long established in that locality; and

WHEREAS, Such action would be disastrous to the interests of a growing section of our state, leaving it dependent for protection on troops drawn from distant posts, the nearest of which is 200 miles from Fort Klamath, therefore be it

Resolved, By the board of trade of Portland, Oregon, that we do most respectfully but earnestly pray his excellency the president of the United States to revoke the order above referred to and in lieu thereof to issue an order continuing the post as at present.

Resolved, That our senators and representatives in congress are petitioned to lend us all the aid in their power toward accomplishing the end in view.

Resolved, That copies of these resolutions be sent to the president and to our senators and representative.

On motion the board adjourned.

FIRST OREGON BICYCLE TOUR.

Fred T Merrill, the champion bicyclist and leading bicycle agent of the Northwest, will make a 400-mile bicycle tour through the Willamette valley, leaving here Monday morning and stopping at Forest Grove, Hillsboro, Lafayette, McMinnville, Amity, Monmouth, Independence, Dallas, Corvallis, Albany, Harrisburg, Junction and Eugene City. From there his route is unsettled. He will average about forty five or fifty miles a day and will be gone from eight to ten days. During his absence his agency here will be managed by a well-known bicyclist.

Fred is thoroughly posted in all matters pertaining to bicycling, in fact all sports, and he will be well provided with all the latest catalogues, circulars and bicycle knowledge of the day. Intended purchasers of wheels should have their minds made up, cash and trading machines made up for an immediate trade as his stay in each town will be short. The trip will be one of business and recreation. In about a month he will go into active training for the world's championship races at Springfield, Mass., in September and although he has a very little hope of winning, he will do his utmost to bring some of the laurels back to Oregon.

CHANGED HIS PLEA.

CHENEY, W. T., May 20, 1886.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The trial of Carter, charged with the murder of Peter Kenney, came to a sudden termination this morning when Frank Graves, one of the counsel for the prisoner, when court was called arose and announced to the court that the defendant Carter desired to withdraw his plea of not guilty and enter a plea of murder in the second degree. The counsel for the territory, J. G. Hyle and S. G. McMillin, consented to the plea being taken, which was accordingly allowed by the court and the jury discharged. The defendant protested his innocence, but said owing to the nature of the testimony already given by the territory, that he felt the best thing he could do was to plead guilty. Mc

Turkish Troops Fire upon the Greeks, but are Repulsed.

THE GREEK COMMANDER'S REPORT

The Debate in the Commons on the Home Rule Measure—The Intentions of Gladstone—De Lesseps and his Canal

ATHENS, May 21.—Major Domiotis has made the following report of the fighting on the frontier: "While we were changing sentries at Karravitsa at 10 o'clock yesterday morning the Turks opened fire upon us. We replied. Firing soon ceased, but in a few minutes the Turks suddenly reopened along the whole line near Nelseros. I ordered our fire to cease, and the Turks also stopped. At 4 o'clock in the morning the Turks renewed their firing, this time with artillery from Karla. At 6 o'clock a Turkish company advanced with the purpose of taking Analipsis. The Turks are assembling to attack our position at Nelseros. They have captured our post at Baerakto. This they succeeded in doing by a sudden rush. I have ordered my troops to reoccupy other positions. All is now quiet."

The government has ordered the Greek commander to avoid provoking hostilities, but if the Turks are aggressors the Greeks shall assume the offensive.

THE GREEKS REPULSE THE TURKS.

ATHENS, May 21.—Dispatches received from the frontier whence they were sent at noon to-day report continued firing between the Turkish and Greek troops. The Turks were attempting to occupy Analipsis. They have been repulsed at Phtiotiendra, after severe fighting. The Greeks remain firm in their position. Their infantry is now pursuing the repulsed and retreating Turks near Saint Athanasius. Greek artillery has destroyed the Turkish earthworks opposite Analipsis. The Turks that were entrenched at Sallosible are now retreating towards Hassan Mellina. The Greeks have reoccupied Paleiktori.

The firing which occurred on the frontier yesterday did not result in any bloodshed. The Turks opened fire from a distance on the Greek forces, kept it up a short time without effect and then retired.

THE NEW MINISTRY.

ATHENS, May 21.—M. Tricoupis has formed a new ministry. He assumes provisionally the offices of minister of war and minister of finance.

Tricoupis received an ovation last evening from the populace of Athens. In an interview he declared that the policy of the new government would be one of peace. They would demobilize the army and endeavor to avert the financial crisis threatening Greece.

Dragoumis is minister of foreign affairs.

Orders which had been given to demobilize the Greek army have been cancelled and troops have been ordered to proceed at once to the frontier.

M. Valvois, late premier, before he retired telegraphed to M. Condouriotti, Greek minister at Constantinople, to request the porte to give orders to the Turkish troops which would render possible a cessation of the warlike situation on the frontier.

THE BOURSES AFFECTED.

LONDON, May 21.—News of the firing on the Greek frontier to-day unfavorably affected the European bourses, and the tone at the close was flat.

ENGLAND

HOME RULE DEBATE IN THE COMMONS.

LONDON, May 21.—Mr. Gladstone in the house of commons this afternoon stated that he would on Monday next ask the house for a vote of supply on account, and then to take up the arms act for daily debate until the bill was passed, in order that it might be brought into operation before the old act expired.

Justin McCarthy resumed debate on the home rule bill this evening. He said that the prospects of home rule had brightened recently, thanks to Lord Salisbury's revival of the cry of "No Popery." They could not afford to await for the elaboration of a scheme of imperial federation. The Irish parliament would join the federation when it is matured. He would rather the Orangemen were friends than enemies. He hoped they did not mean to fight; they ought rather to assist in regenerating their fatherland. He earnestly hoped Mr. Gladstone would not mutilate the bill or postpone it for another year. Happen what might, Mr. Gladstone had already secured self-government for Ireland. (Prolonged cheers.)

Mr. Childers, home secretary, said that while there was no danger in granting to Ireland the powers which the bill confers, there was danger in refusing such powers. He believed that, as in the cases of Australia and Canada, the measure would be accepted by Ireland cordially and the result would be permanent attachment to England on the part of the Irish people.

Maj. Saunderson, conservative member for North Armagh, was the next speaker. In the course of his remarks he said: "A strong conversion has occurred in the opinions of the liberal leaders and supporters of Mr. Parnell, and perhaps we shall never learn how their reciprocal action has been brought about. It is no wonder that such an arrangement has resulted in a limping policy—a policy supported by one British and one Cork leg." [Roars of laughter.]

The speaker advocated the suppression of the national league. He said he did not object to the land purchase scheme. Further on in his speech he accused the Parnellites with receiving money from America, whereupon Mr. O'Brien arose and excitedly exclaimed: "That's false."

The speaker asked Mr. O'Brien to withdraw his expression.

Mr. Sexton rose to speak, but the speaker at this moment called upon Major Saunderson to withdraw his accusation, and the major responded by saying that he withdrew with pleasure what was contrary to the rules of the house, whereupon Mr. O'Brien explained [illegible].

Upon motion of Viscount Lymington, liberal, the debate was adjourned.

A GAME OF [illegible].

LONDON, May 21.—The central liberal council has sent circulars to all the liberal societies throughout the country warning them to prepare for an early dissolution of parliament. This contrasts curiously with the renewed confidence of the ministerialists in the second reading of the Irish bill, which the Parnellite whips proclaim will be carried by a majority of twenty-five. A game of brag proceeds merely all around.

A gentleman who was present at a private banquet given to Lord Hartington at Bradford on Tuesday says he heard Lord Hartington declare that the granting in a large measure of home rule to Ireland was inevitable within the next three or four years.

GLADSTONE'S INTENTIONS.

LONDON, May 21.—Gladstone has decided to convene a meeting of the liberal party before the debate in the commons on the home rule is concluded. This will be done in order to consider differences that have arisen concerning the measure.

THE DEBATE PROLONGED.

LONDON, May 21.—Owing to the large number of members who wish to speak on the home rule bill it is expected that the debate will not close until the end of week after next.

FRANCE

DE LESSEPS UNDAUNTED.

PARIS, May 21.—M. de Lesseps pronounces the whole Rousseau incident a thing of but little importance. The canal company's engineers held a consultation to-day for the purpose of preparing a statement in rebuttal of Rousseau's report. De Lesseps says that if the government refuses him permission to issue lottery bonds for the purpose of raising sufficient money to complete the canal he will get funds by other means and elsewhere than in France.

De Lesseps said that M. Rousseau naturally took a pessimistic view. "But," added M. De Lesseps, "the worst that even Rousseau can say is that great difficulties have to be overcome in cutting, and that cutting was contracted for below what the work will actually cost." Commenting further, De Lesseps said: "The contractors will have to suffer if what M. Rousseau says be true, but not the company. I adhere to my belief that the canal will be completed in 1889, and I am ready to furnish the government with all the information and documents in my possession which confirm me in my impression."

THE COUNT OF PARIS BANISHED.

PARIS, May 21.—It is here considered certain that the government will prohibit Comte de Paris, who is now at Lisbon to attend the wedding of his daughter to the crown prince of Portugal, from returning to France.

GERMANY

SAD NEWS FOR MINISTER PENDLETON.

BERLIN, May 21.—United States Minister Pendleton and daughter Mary witnessed a parade of the imperial guard to-day, and on returning to the American legation they were handed a telegram announcing the death of Mrs. Pendleton. Both were terribly shocked. As soon as the news had spread many ladies of the American colony hastened to sympathize with the daughter, and Mr. Pendleton received expressions of deepest sympathy from all sides. French newspapers contain paragraphs expressing regret and condolence. It is not yet known whether Mr. Pendleton will return to America. It is expected that his son and other daughter, who are now in New York, will come to Berlin immediately after the funeral of Mrs. Pendleton.

ITALY

THE ERUPTION IN [illegible].

CATANIA, Sicily, May 21.—The eruption of Mount Etna increases. Molten lava was this afternoon distant from Nicolosi eight miles from here on the slope of the volcano, when the inhabitants fled. Many dwellings were destroyed. [illegible] Earthquake shocks are constantly occurring.

CALIFORNIA

INVESTIGATING THE BOYCOTT.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 21.—A fact which is perhaps not generally known is that one of the deputy U. S. marshals, Capt. Hiram M. Burns, is constantly employed traveling about the state collecting evidence in relation to the boycotting of Chinese and relative matters. Exactly the object and purposes of Capt. Burns's investigations cannot be learned, but it is understood around the federal departments that he is detailed for this work under special instructions from Washington to Marshal Franks.

BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 21.—Helene Zeidler has brought suit in the superior court against Christopher Straiberger for $10,000 damages for breach of promise of marriage. She alleges that in December last defendant promised to marry her on the 4th of April of this year, but that on that date he refused to do so. She charges that, relying upon his promise to marry, she left the place where she was employed and earning $20 per month and board; that by reason of defendant's refusal to marry her, plaintiff has been greatly disappointed in her expectations and is now compelled to earn her living, that her feelings and affections have been greatly injured thereby and that she is compelled to endure the disgrace attendant upon the publication of their proposed marriage.

SUIT AGAINST THE O. R. & N.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 21.—Suit has been brought in the superior court by E. T. B. Mills & Co., grain dealers, to recover $43,07[illegible] from the O. R. & N. Co. for excessive charges in a shipment of wheat made by plaintiffs the latter part of last year, from districts in Washington and Idaho territories, east of the Cascade mountains, to this city.

[illegible] TRAMP.

PORT TOWNSEND, May 21.—About 11 [illegible] yesterday an unknown man went to the house of the Jackson family, who live near this place, and attempted to break in. Miss Jackson, who was in the house alone, stopped him, when he told her to stand aside or he would shoot. As the girl still stood her ground he drew a pistol and fired, wounding her severely in the arm. Supposing he had murdered her the tramp ran away. A posse is out in chase. The man is supposed to be one of the Seattle desperadoes who has left that place since the Chinese and labor riots and been in hiding in the cutting districts in Clallam county.

NO OCCASION FOR ALARM.

SPOKANE FALLS, May 21.—A Fort Coeur d'Alene special to the [illegible] says regarding the rumored Indian trouble in the Calispel country: A man named Vescott arriving here yesterday from Calispel valley says there is no occasion for alarm. Lieut. Carleton, who arrived from there a few days ago, concurs in the report. This is regarded here as authentic.

ARIZONA

MORE INDIAN OUTRAGES.

TOMBSTONE, May 21.—Apaches killed two Mexicans on the Mescal ranch near the Mexican line yesterday. They also waylaid and killed two Mexicans and fatally wounded a boy between Mescal Springs and San Pedro.

Leading citizens of Tombstone have sent a petition to the United States government setting forth the condition of affairs in this vicinity.

HOW SHALL WE VOTE?

May 21, 1886.

To the Editor of The Oregonian:

The time of election is drawing near and we must decide how we shall cast the ballot. The situation is evidently such as to require thoughtful consideration. There has undoubtedly been very much hasty decision. Men who have grown into the ranks of their own parties at once by force of habit and on the impulse of the moment when there was no other ticket in the field determined [illegible] by the old parties. All such determinations were dictated by prejudice or passion rather than by reason.

The tickets and platforms are now all before the voters. There is but one question before them and that is which party will best serve the true interests of the state. Names are nothing. Actual results to be expected are what we must count on. It seems that prohibition is the desideratum of a large body of voters. Scarcely a republican we meet but declares loudly that he is a prohibitionist, yet will not vote the prohibition ticket. Now we should like to ask all such which party is most likely to establish prohibition legislation. The prohibition party is organized for that very purpose. It pledges itself to enact anti-liquor legislation at once without waiting for the slow movements of an amendment. It will restore the Ready law to its intended vigor, if not attempting more stringent measures. It will certainly submit the proposed amendment prohibiting, not respecting or regulating, the liquor traffic. All prohibitionists, whether in or out of the third party, may feel confident that all that can be done will be done for prohibition by our party.

The other parties give no promise of anything of the kind. To the managers of both parties this issue is most unwelcome. They endeavor as far as possible to avoid it, and when fairly pressed to make an utterance it is as vague and ambiguous as language permits. Evidently the framers of the submission plank in the platforms of both the other parties intended to make the temperance men in their parties suppose that they would favor prohibitory laws, without actually making any pledges. It was mostly a handful of chaff for the slow districts and steady old coach horses to fumble over until the election was passed. Neither party proposes any legislation prior to the submission of the amendment. Neither party proposes to discover means for enforcing the amendment after it is passed. The republican party trusts that it will still favor education, temperance and morality after the manner it has done in the past, which with the [illegible] makes it an exceedingly weak trust. The democratic party does not even trust so much as this.

With this half story and half treacherous attitude of the party managers in both the other parties, what can temperance men expect of them?

It is [illegible] of years now since the [illegible] of the liquor business have been exposed and pressed upon the minds of the parties in this state. What have they done [illegible]? The democratic [illegible] notorious [illegible] party, and the republican is but little better. The bills that have been passed, such as the scientific instruction and the [illegible] of the prohibitory amendment, were favored by legislators of both parties, and that only [illegible] the mere shadow of the prohibition [illegible]. The position of the two old parties is [illegible] double dealing and altogether [illegible].

But aside from the question of prohibition, does not the platform and ticket of the prohibitionists promise a clearer, more economical, more thorough and more business-like administration than either of the others? It is not too much to say that politics in Oregon for the past dozen years have been disgraceful. Ever since Ben Holladay's advent into our fair state, robbery and bribery have been the recognized methods in the republican party. Ever since the election of Gov. Grover, trickery and swindling have been the accompaniments of the democrats. At the present time the one man in Oregon most instrumental in bringing about this disgraceful vicious school in political corruption, J. H. Mitchell, is the active head of both parties. Both parties endeavor to suppress individual choice and conscience. Any man who shows any independence or fidelity to his own convictions is hissed and howled down. This is not the attitude of individuals in the parties, but it is the policy of the bosses whom they follow.

Col. Cornelius, for instance, is in many ways an excellent citizen, yet his political training has been under Holladay and Mitchell. He apparently does not know of any kind of political action separate from jobs and rings. He is the apt and easy tool of public demagogues. Nominated by Mitchell, if elected by the Mitchell influence he can be nothing but Mitchell's lieutenant at Salem.

As for Pennoyer, everybody knows that he is merely a street agitator, either pandering to the narrow prejudices of the hoodlum scum of society or himself belonging to it. With Houston and Dr. Kinney we may be sure of honest men, of more general ability than their competitors and entirely separate from corrupt rings.

It is a mistake if any suppose that the prohibitionists will allow themselves to be disfranchised by the arrogant claims or peevish threats of opponents. Many republicans seem to think they are the only ones who have any right to political opinions. They haughtily reprimand us and count us sinners for breaking up their party. We can retort upon them in the same language: Vote for us, you republicans, or else bear the stigma of breaking up the prohibition party. What is there more sacred about your party than there is about ours, that we should handle you more tenderly than you do us? We are of the opinion that it is you who will bear the reproach of coming times and the curses of a debauched people if you do not now, while the time offers, help us in mastering the admitted evil of the times. What are you voting for, brother republicans—a degraded party, a set of political [illegible] bend to the shoulders of demagoguery. We propose to vote for [illegible] principles, and men whose collars do not bear the initials "J. H. M."

Do not suppose that the threat that if we do not vote for the old party [illegible] will go against the amendment is considered by us worthy of respect. That is the whine of peevish children, not a reply of reasonable men. Do you expect to favor the amendment to please us? We supposed it was to protect society, your own property and your own homes. Whom will it injure most, us or you, if you let the liquor traffic still ravage the land? The evils of this traffic will still consume you and yours like us, [illegible] to see how you may escape its burden. We cannot help having a small estimate of those who hold their professed convictions so lightly as to turn them up and use them for a scarecrow to frighten us into subservience to their masters.

[illegible] a party embodies the most correct principles, if it presents the best men unfettered by corrupt antecedents and affiliations, let every voter think twice before he casts his ballot against it. You think it a serious matter for us to leave your party. Think now [illegible]. It is not serious, fed by inertia, or prejudice or fear of being found in the minority, to strike down the new party which promises to continue all that is good in the old parties, to reform old abuses and to inaugurate the great reform that you allow is desirable.

THE EAST SIDE.

Republican and Prohibition Meetings Last Night—Addresses by Various Speakers.

The first republican meeting under the auspices of the East Portland republican club was given last evening at Armory hall. At 8 o'clock a handsome barouche containing H. E. McGinn, republican candidate for district attorney, Hon. M. C. George and Wm. Showers, headed by the Willamette brass band and under escort of a reception committee, was driven to the hall at the corner of Fourth and J streets. The hall was well filled. J. H. McMillan, vice-president of the club, introduced Mr. George, the first speaker of the evening. Mr. George then spoke for over an hour, reviewing briefly the national history of the republican and democratic parties. Most of his speech was devoted to a discussion of the tariff, merchant marine, commerce, civil service reform and kindred subjects. Mr. George dated the commencement of the policy for the protection of American industries at 1860, showing in his review that the democratic party by its legislative policy in congress had driven the American flag from the seas by refusing to enlarge the power of our merchant marine, had crippled our industries by a continuous and aggravating interference with our protective policy, had disheartened our laborers by subjecting them to humiliating competition with foreign serf labor. He then sarcastically and earnestly referred to the inducements held out by the democratic party of civil service reform, and by comparison showed that President Cleveland had removed thus far during his administration more than double the number of public officials that had been removed by the first seven presidents; that notwithstanding the cry raised by Hendricks and other democratic orators that there was a large surplus in the treasury that should be distributed among the people, the democratic administration had during its first acts after accession to power set aside $100,000,000 for the redemption of silver certificates. In reference to state affairs Mr. George said that at the close of democratic administration the state was in debt $600,000 of principal and $[illegible]00,000 interest, and that during republican rule this indebtedness had been reduced, so that the [illegible] had on hands enough funds to pay every dollar of the state debt, notwithstanding the fact that extensive public improvements had been made, and state taxes had been reduced in that time from seven mills under democratic administration to three mills on the dollar under republican management.

H. E. McGinn followed with a brief, effective speech, declaring himself in favor of a free bridge across the Willamette, and promising his unqualified support of any legislation that looked to that end. Mr. McGinn criticised the utterances of E. G. [illegible] in arrogating to himself all the purity of the world and granting to others the possession of nothing but a lack of purity. The speaker spoke highly of Judge Bronaugh's honor and legal ability, and professed the warmest friendship for him as a citizen and brother attorney. After a brief speech by Col. S. I. Harrington the meeting adjourned.

PROHIBITION MEETING.

About two hundred people assembled at Nasmith's hall last evening to listen to Prof. G. M. Miller, prohibition candidate for the lower house of congress. Among the audience were quite a number of democrats. Prof. Miller was introduced by Capt. J. W. Kern, president of the East Portland prohibition club, and spoke for two hours amid the unflagging attention of his hearers. Mr. Miller fully deserves all the compliments that have been uttered concerning his brilliancy and effectiveness as a public speaker. His facts were presented with startling clearness and his deductions depicted with trenchant accompaniments of wit and sarcasm. The speaker thought it the privilege and the duty of temperance people to use any lawful means, any weapon, for the destruction of the liquor curse. Prohibition is right; such is the belief of the Christian and temperance people of the land. It is the business of the prohibition party to keep this belief alive. Prohibition is a political question in the broadest sense of the word. It is a question upon which national attention is being centered, so much so that the discussion of it is sweeping from ocean to ocean, from lakes to gulf. The speaker charged the old political parties with having built up and cherished the liquor traffic. The liquor question has not been made a political issue heretofore because both the old parties have been arrayed in favor of whisky. The liquor traffic has always been a public question—it is now a living, burning issue that, like Banquo's ghost, will not down at the bidding of any political sorcerer, republican or democratic. [Applause.] Liquor is a national political question, for the reason that government, by and through its revenue system, is a three-fourths partner in the business. Of whisky valued at the still at $1.20 per gallon, government receives 90 cents and the distillery 30 cents from the sale. The speaker went on to further fortify his position by statistics entirely familiar to all who have studied the liquor question. He charged, according to the expense which their existence incurred upon the nation, every saloon should pay an annual license of $10,000. The two old parties are blind to the devastating influences of the liquor traffic. Like the old woman who could not see the barn but confessed she could distinguish the man on top of the barn, so the two dominant parties were blind to the destruction wrought by whisky and saw only the revenue obtained from it. What can a prohibition national party do? It can abolish the liquor traffic in the District of Columbia and the territories of the Union, thus stamping out of existence 10,000 saloons. Was slavery in the territories a national question? Then whisky in the territories is a national question in the same light. A national prohibition party can prevent the importation of liquors (stuff worse than the cholera) and thus save to the American people $[illegible],000,000 annually. It could prevent the exportation of whisky. More than half the African was [illegible] by American whisky, and a great deal of misery in heathen lands was chargeable to the same cause. Have the old parties met any of these issues? When proposed they have been cast aside with the reply that the liquor traffic cannot be made a national question because it is a thing to be dealt with by the states. Mr. [illegible] made that argument. The speaker was surprised to hear [illegible] that we had fought to settle the question of the doctrine of state rights, but after all the right or wrong of a proposition depends on whose ox is being gored. If the liquor traffic is not a national question then Calhoun was right and this is not a Union but only a confederation of states. The democratic party is married to rum. It is pledged to love, cherish and obey. Sometimes the ministers leave the obey out of the marriage vows, but the democratic party didn't leave it out when it wedded whisky. [Laughter.] The republican party has fostered and built up the beer business during its twenty-four years of power. The beer business has grown four times faster than the population of the country and three times faster than any other legitimate enterprise. Well might the national brewers pass resolutions favorable to that party. The beer business lies at the bottom of our political corruption and is the deepest and most damning disgrace of the nineteenth century. The speaker referred to the one idea charge made against the prohibitionists, and said that both the old parties were built up on one idea, and the prohibition party is the friend of the silver dollar and the laboring man, and closed with the declaration that the present movers in the prohibition ranks could well afford, like the ancient soldiers, to throw themselves into the moat of defeat that their comrades behind might march over their prostrate forms to victory and glory.

At the close a collection was taken and the audience adjourned with many expressions of satisfaction.

NOTES.

The East Portland W. C. T. U. will hereafter on the first Monday of every month hold a meeting specially for mothers.

Several hoodlums created a disturbance at the adventists camp meeting last evening, but were promptly suppressed.

Miss Ames, one of the efficient teachers in the public schools, will take the pupils of her room out for a ramble in the woods to-day.

A fracas occurred on the Stark street ferry boat yesterday morning, between two employes of the boat and a couple of well known citizens. A civil suit for damages will likely result.

A slight fire was discovered in the roof of B. Pape's building on Fourth street, between J and I, about 5 o'clock yesterday morning. The blaze was extinguished with a bucketful of water.

The members of the East Portland Y. M. C. A. will pay a fraternal visit to the Portland association by invitation this evening and will participate in the reception at the Y. M. C. A. rooms [illegible] night.

C. M. Wilberg, while engaged in painting his house at his farm just east of town yesterday morning at an early hour, fell from the ladder upon which he was standing, sustaining several severe bruises about the head and face and breaking his nose. Dr. Osman Royal was summoned and rendered the necessary medical aid.

COUNTY AFFAIRS.

PORTLAND, May [illegible].

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

I have been informed that such questions as "Will Dr. McCoy attend to the duties of the office of coroner should he be elected thereto, or will he turn the office over to those who have been running it in the past," and other questions, which indicate a suspicion in the minds of many that even in the petty office of county coroner economy has not at all times been the first consideration. Now I am frank to say that had I been consulted in the matter before my name was used in connection with this office I should have hesitated, if not peremptorily declined to stand for the office.

Thinking at the time, however, that there was no probability of an election, I made no serious objection to the action of the convention. Since the meeting of the different conventions matters have assumed a different phase.

It now appears not only probable but quite certain that many, if not all, the candidates on the county prohibition ticket will be elected at the ensuing June election. This is as it should be. Certain it is that if the taxpayers of Multnomah county study their own best interests they will cut loose from all ring and rum interests and will elect to the various county positions men who have some regard for the interests of the public and who will not seek to construe the law as moulded entirely in the interest of him who happens to be so fortunate as to be placed in office for a brief period.

It would be difficult indeed to find a good and sufficient reason for taxing the citizens of this county to an extent almost unbearable just to enrich two or three individuals who have no kind of claim upon the public's charity. Multnomah county is now and has for some years past been paying from $10,000 to $[illegible]0,000 per annum to men for performing services for which private corporations and individuals would not pay but $800 to $2400. Just as efficient men in every sense of the term as any man who has ever filled either the sheriff's or clerk's position for this or any other county in the state can be had to perform all the duties incident to either position for $2400 to $3600 per annum. To leave the door open for such wholesale pilfering off the public as, for so long, has been the case with us of this county, is to encourage immorality in those entrusted with office, to afford means for debauching the voters, to pave the way for some to the penitentiary, and to load upon the shoulders of all taxpayers a burden grievous to be borne. To remedy this evil and to prevent others growing up in our midst in so far as is possible at the polls, and here is where the work is to be done, should be the first and last purpose of each voter at the coming June election. Especially should the voters be discreet in making choice of men to the legislative assembly, and for such positions in the county as that of county judge, prosecuting attorney, county commissioners, etc. In these positions the incumbents can, under existing laws, if honest and scrupulous men seeking to promote the public welfare rather than their own, save to the county thousands of dollars annually that would be lost to it under the administration of reckless and unscrupulous officials. It is hardly needful for me to attempt an analysis of the old party tickets in this county for the edification of voters; their color, odor and homogeneity betray their parentage. I will only say in closing, should it fall out that I should fall into any position at the call of the voters of the county, I promise to practice what I preach.

EUGENE NOTES.

Judge Bean has gone to Coos county to hold a term of court.

The brick work on the Conser block will be completed this week.

Our Choral society will give a song service at Rhinehart's next Sunday evening.

The Pelle Du Bois company arrived on Thursday. They give an entertainment this Friday evening.

The new M. E. church is being pushed forward rapidly this nice weather. It is enclosed and the roof about completed.

Mrs. W. H. Irwin and daughter of Monmouth, Ill., and Hon. A. W. Lucas and wife of Monmouth, Or., are visiting at Dr. T. W. Shelton's.

Mr. I. J. Montague is visiting Southern Oregon for the purpose of securing a sufficient supply of limestone for the purpose of establishing a lime kiln in this city.

Fruit of all kinds is in fine condition and in such quantities as only Oregon orchards can afford. A good canning establishment could obtain an ample supply here this season.

The fine weather is very favorable to growing crops, and if present indications are realized the overplus in the productions of Lane county will be double as much as it was last year.

The democratic candidates for state offices interviewed a small audience at the court house on Wednesday afternoon. The republicans will make an effort to edify [illegible] on Saturday.

The Misses Cogswell returned from California last Monday, where they have been during the winter for the benefit of the latter's health, which we regret to say is not improved.

The county campaign was opened on the part of the democrats and prohibitionists at Coburg last Thursday. The republicans will be in their canvass next Monday, from which time until election day the political field will be lively.

J. W. Geary post G. A. R. will observe Decoration day with appropriate ceremonies. The religious service will be held in Rhinehart's theater on Sunday evening, May 30, but the decoration of the soldiers' graves will be attended on Monday.

We understand that the newly organized railroad company are taking steps to secure an accurate survey of the bar and entrance of Siuslaw bay, and that the preliminary surveys and securing the right of way will be attended to in the near future. We hope it will be pushed to success, as it would give this part of the valley a needed boom.

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, May 21.—Government bonds were [illegible] and unchanged. To-day was another day of encouragement for the advocates of higher prices for stocks. Everything shows substantial gains over last night's closing figures. St. Paul was undoubtedly the lever by which the rest of the market was moved. The buying of this stock seems to be almost entirely for Western account. Final figures generally were either at or close to the best price reached, the market losing stock at the advance. Although the whole active list is higher to-night, St. Paul is the only stock on the usually active list showing an advance of more than 1 per cent.

Suffering Womanhood.

Too much effort cannot be made to bring to the attention of suffering womanhood the great virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a remedy for the diseases of women. Such a one is the wife of Gen'l Barringer of Winston, N. C., and we quote from the General's letter as follows: "Dear Mrs. Pinkham: Please allow me to add my testimony to the most excellent medicinal qualities of your Vegetable Compound. Mrs. Barringer was treated for several years for what the physicians called [illegible] and Prolapsus Uteri combined. I sent her to Richmond, Va., where she remained for six months under the treatment of an eminent Physician without any permanent benefit. She was induced to try your medicine and after a reasonable time commenced to improve and is now able to attend to her business and considers herself fully relieved." General Barringer is the proprietor of the American Hotel, Winston, N. C., and is widely known.—Ed.

A Man's Thanks.

A well known business man of Wilmington, N. C., writes: "It is with pleasure that I write to express to you my gratitude for the relief and benefit our Vegetable Compound has been to my Wife, who has been troubled with ulceration. She has been under the treatment of the doctor for six years. Finally he said he could do nothing more for her that she could do in an hour. Then I commenced using your Compound and now she can attend to her domestic affairs as well as she ever could."
